House, on the Corner of Charles and hy years engaged in the manufacture of ploughs, become satisfied that an improvement might be made in them, commenced his experiments and out buildings. Possession eiven numediately which have an hypothesis in account in the second states. good work, stands unsurpassed by the best ploughs in the country.

These ploughs received the general approbation of the Penobscot Agricultural Society, and a premium at the Cattle Show and Fair in September

The committee in their report way, in speaking of the plough, "so far as we are capable of judging it is equal if not better than any other we have seen, it is very nearly made and of good form for doing work well and with eare, and in our opinion, is so made as to be less liable to break than any other kind in use "

The Banger Mechanic Association, by a commit tee of scientific gentlemen, reported at considerable length in favor of these ploughs. The report states that the "mode by which the general form of this plough is obtained, evinces much ingenuity and skill, and is highly creditable to Col Ray, as a me- gion, 1839. chanic, the committee congratulate the Association and the community upon the improvements that are dence that the attention of scientific men is direct + ed towards that part of our national industry." Anc in concluding their report, they say, "your committee are happy to state that arrangements have been made by which Col. Ray's ploughs are to be manufactured in this city, and onexamiantion your committee are of opinion that the materiale and workmanship do credit to the manufacture ers and to the city, and believing those ploughs, so far as they can judge, to be unsurpassed by any in use, they cannot doubt that their introduction among the farmers of Penobscot will prove bigaly beaescial to the country.".
The subscribers have commenced in the manufacture and will be constantly supplied with these superior PLOUGHS, of four size;, together with the Side-Hill Plough, made by experienced workmen and of the best-materials, which they offer for sale on the most reasonable terms and in any quantity, at their establishment. MERBENICS_

We notice that some of the or recondents of the Maine Farmer are discussing the claims of priority of different trades. This is altogether an old fashioned speculation and of no sort of con-sequence: It is not the time of day for mechanics to be looking back and stumbling upon the gfory and their hope dwells in the future, not the past. The past is filled with murky cloud-gand storms and oppression and mist but the future withe history of the past and the every day progress of the present; do not deceive us, is full of sun shine and joy. The distinctions that have been acknowledged as existing in society, are the peculiar feature of the past in the future, they shall be less or unknown. In the past, a mechanic was defined as a person of a low calling in the future they shall be known in the future, they shall be prepared to establish their own-rights, to occupy high-stations without pride, as they have low ones without dejection, and feel the strength of intellectual and moral power within them. The past has rgen given up to the physical and the feudal ty two girls. A Washington corresponent of ciety the future shall open the holy influence of the movel and spiritual.

The faith of mechanics in themselves, the age, and humanity, must be increased without pride or envy : and they must engage heartily for safe keeping, during his electioneering camin the enterprise of elevating, improving and helping themselves and all others. The conson school, the lecture room, associations for mutual instruction, books, leisure hours, these and tother means should be seized upon by then as leading to a glorious end. If one of their Bumber, from fortunate circumstances or other causes, travels a little faster than others. tank his energies to nid others, take encouragement, pullon after him with a whole heart, instead of wasting time to clog his feet and discourage his efforts.

These are a few only of the great points now presented to thechanics by the sondition of mankind; they descree and should receive their Ennest altention

A Misen. The Yarmouth Register records the death of Jeremiah Hallet of that town, aged sixty four years. He was an coessitric charac-ter whose mind was constantly engrossed by two-subjects, viz: getting money and the math ematics. The first was the business, the other, the amusement of his life. He was a miser in every sense of the word for the last ten years of his life living alone, and denying himself all the luxuries and many of the necessaries of life. He bred upon the coarsest fare and would sit in his room in cold weather without any fire. when his wood was rotting in piles, and a shingle served him the double purpose of a fire-shovel and a bellows To accumulate money, he not only sacrificed all the comforte and conveniences of life, but even severed the natural ties of kindred. He committed suicide and af ter his death, on exemining his rooms, it was found, that the whole value of his fortune and bedding would not exceed three dollars, and every room was covered with filth and dirt. He was protoundly exilled in the seie ce of nuinbers, and could boast of greater proficiency in the higher branches of mathematics than any, man in this part of the country.
